DWARF CITRUS TREES

For small gardens or Patio ornaments these dwarf varieties of citrus fill a long felt need. By the use of a dwarf rootstock the size of these trees have been reduced to one quarter of the size of the conventional trees. If they are grown in tubs the size is further reduced. Dwarf citrus produces the same high quality fruit as the regular type trees so the description of the fruit and the ripening dates in the foregoing list may be applied to these trees. These trees were grown by Mr. Dillon of the Four Winds Nursery at Piru, Calif. They are the Dwarf Citrus trees described in the May, 1950, issue of Sunset Magazine.
